Growing Teacher Capacity

Enhancing Professional Growth through Coaching

Notre Dame College, Shepparton are enabling staff to be better equipped in their goal setting and professional growth through coaching. Patricia, Sharon and Merryn will discuss the current coaching model and how it evolved. Their presentation will focus on the drivers and challenges of such a large scale program including gaining support from leadership and managing initial hesitation of some staff to coaching. Together they have experienced great success with their current model and will explore with us the next stages of implementation.

Creating Community: Acknowledging Teacher Value

Ensuring that quality teachers are retained in the profession and at their school, Annie and the team at OLSH are ensuring new staff to their school, and to the profession, know their value and feel an important part of the school community. Through a quality induction process, coupled with a cycle of enquiry, observation and student feedback, new staff are supported to grow professionally, acknowledged for their value, and become active contributing members of the school community. Annie will walk us through their program so you too can retain quality teachers in your school.

The Leadership Exchange is a leadership development event for educators to come together, share stories and develop professional networks. Invited guest speakers provide insights about educational direction and we explore programs and strategies to improve wellbeing and learning outcomes.

Why should you attend The Leadership Exchange? Because your career and leadership rely on being known and well connected. This is your opportunity to make those connections with educators across schools, both government and independent and develop yourself at the same time.

Leadership Coach | Career Strategist

Janine Stratford formed The Leadership Exchange in 2016 for educators to learn from each other and develop professional connections, in real-time. A former Deputy Principal and School Leader, Janine is a Leadership Coach and Career Strategist and founder of Coaching Focus. Janine coaches leaders, facilitates professional development programs and delivers coach-training and coach-supervision across Australia including the annual national The Leading Edge: Women in Education Conference. Janine works with leaders and their teams in schools to lift leadership capacity, strengthen team effectiveness and assists educators to secure their chosen career.
